USFJ boss to retire

By 1st Lt. Michelle Mayo
5th Air Force Public Affairs

Lt. Gen. Thomas Waskow relinquished command of U.S. Forces Japan and 5th Air Force to Lt. Gen. Bruce Wright in a ceremony yesterday at Yokota Air Base, Japan.

"As commander of U.S. Forces Japan, and commander of 5th Air Force, [General Wright] has the opportunity to command our nation's treasure, which is our young Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen and Marines," said General Waskow prior to the ceremony.

"Our operations tempo is as high as I've ever seen it, yet our young kids are constantly responding to the missions," General Waskow said.

One case in point, he said, was the response to Operation Unified Assistance. Following an earthquake and tsunamis that devastated parts of South and Southeast Asia Dec. 26, 2004, units from around the region responded quickly to getting their expertise and equipment to the disaster areas.

"Even during a period of time when we were deploying Marines to Iraq, we were deploying Air Force elements to support operations in Iraq and other places, and when the Seventh Fleet was constantly upgrading their capabilities, our response to the tsunami was immediate and in force," he said.

He said he couldn't be prouder of the young service men and women he's had the privilege to command, and added, "Quite frankly, looking at the performance of our young folks, I'm very proud to be an American."

General Waskow will officially retire in April after 35 years of service.

JSDF gets glimpse into Kadena

By 1st Lt. Gerardo Gonzalez
18th Wing Public Affairs

A group of 44 senior military officers from the Joint Staff College in Tokyo visited Kadena last week to learn about the installation's operations and its role in the Pacific.

The students and instructors arrived in Japanese Self Defense Forces CH-46 helicopters and spent the day touring various base facilities, including the 67th Fighter Squadron and the Silver Flag training area.

"At the joint staff college, we're trying to get a notion of joint operations," said Japanese Navy Capt. Tsukasa Inoue. "That's why we're here today—to study how joint and daily operations are conducted by the 18th Wing."

Col. Richard Zink, 18th Wing vice commander, welcomed the officers and provided insight into Kadena's mission, function and participation in regional exercises and real-world operations.

Colonel Zink praised the cooperation between the two nations and highlighted benefits of the partnership.

"We believe that our mutual interactions have helped provide peace and stability in this region and have spurred economic development," Colonel Zink said.

"As we go through our challenges on the global war on terrorism, we see that where we have economic development and peaceful transfers of power, you do not find hotbeds of terrorism."

During the visit to the 67th FS, the visiting officers got a glimpse of the fighter squadron's operations and as it came to an end, the unit's top leader reflected on the meaning of the visit.

"We are two countries that need to foster our relationships and continue to work hard together toward our ultimate goal of global peace," said Lt. Col. Jeff Gustafson, 67th FS commander, to the students.

The group also toured the Silver Flag training site and learned how Airmen sharpen their wartime readiness skills. Given by Detachment 1, 554th Red Horse Squadron, the Silver Flag tour showed how the Air Force trains Airmen to build, operate and maintain forward operating bases for deployed forces.

Kadena's wide array of missions and its sheer size surprised the Japanese Navy officers.

"This base is much larger than I expected," Captain Inoue said. "It has a great many functions."

By day's end the class came away with a better understanding of the role of Kadena in the Pacific, according to Captain Inoue, a 20-year Navy veteran.

Colonel Zink praised the students and thanked them for visiting the base.

"All of us can be proud of our accomplishments and the service we give to our nations," he said.

Kadena Airmen cage Thailand's Cope Tiger

By 1st Lt. Gerardo Gonzalez
18th Wing Public Affairs

Kadena aircraft took to the skies over Thailand recently to participate in an exercise designed to improve interoperability between allied forces while sharpening air combat skills and promoting closer relations between the United States, Thailand and Singapore.

More than 100 Kadena Airmen benefited from this year's Royal Thai Air Force-led Cope Tiger exercise and joined a force of about 600 U.S. and 1,500 allied military members.

The 18th Wing sent four F-15 Eagles and an E-3A AWACS aircraft and support Airmen from various career fields and squadrons to the exercise.

"Cope Tiger was a real Team Kadena effort," said Lt. Col. John Bird, 44th Fighter Squadron commander. "Squadrons from across Kadena had to pull together just to get our pallets deployed to Korat (Thailand)."

The experiences gained from Cope Tiger '05 are of future value, according to Colonel Bird.

"It's not very often that we get to fly and fight with Thai Air Force pilots," he said.

"The relationships we build and the tactical lessons we learn in this Cope Tiger will pay big dividends in the event of a contingency."

An added bonus during this year's training was the opportunity the 44th FS had of combining Kadena operations and maintenance crews with their counterparts from the Hawaii Air National Guard's 199th FS, who also participated in the exercise, said Colonel Bird.

"Working side by side with our guard brethren is an awesome opportunity ...something we might not normally do until a time of war," the commander said.

"They bring a wealth of experience to the table that our youngest pilots definitely benefited from."

The 961st Airborne Air Control Squadron also deployed and likewise gained from this regional exercise.

"It's always beneficial for a squadron to stretch its deployment muscles," said Lt. Col. Frederick Bacon, 961st AACS director of operations. "Moving a complicated and expensive airplane, with crew, maintenance and security forces, to another country and meeting a demanding flying schedule is perfect preparation for future [Air Expeditionary Force] taskings."

This was the 11th time U.S. forces participated in Cope Tiger since 1992. The joint- and combined-multilateral training exercise wrapped up Feb. 4.

"The experience our team got during Cope Tiger is invaluable to their development as Air Force warriors," Colonel Bird said.

THE KADENA SHOGUN -- BEST TABLOID NEWSPAPER IN PACAF 2004

There's no place like home...

By Brig. Gen. Jan-Marc Jouas
18th Wing commander

...especially if home is Kadena!

I'm very glad to be back from my duties with Operation Unified Assistance, but more than that, I'm very proud of Team Kadena and our response to the destruction and loss of life caused by the great tsunami of 2004. Even though it was the holiday season we were ready when called, and Airmen from squadrons across Kadena packed their bags, readied equipment, launched aircraft, and became key initial responders to the suffering in Asia. The rapid deployment of our forces, along with Marines from the III MEF and Navy strike groups, was vital to the swift progress of the largest disaster relief effort in history. As the US military continues to turn over relief operations to the United Nations and other organizations, let us take pride in a job well done by all those who were part of this humanitarian mission.

If January is any indication of what 2005 holds for us it will be a busy 12 months. Foremost in importance this year will be the 120-day rotation of AEF-5 in May. We must make sure that the many Airmen from the 18th Wing who will take part in this deployment are ready for their mission. At the same time we need to prepare our home units and squadrons for a manning shortfall during those four months, and ensure that they don't try to do more with less -- it will be hard enough just trying to do the same with less. Prioritizing what needs to be done, vice what's nice to be done, will go a long way towards maintaining a proper tempo.

Our families must also be prepared for this rotation -- not just those who will have a loved one deploying, but also the families that will be here for support. Look for our new "Deployment Fairs" soon to help everyone in our Air Force family get ready for this AEF rotation.

The typhoon season will probably keep us busy again this summer, as will our preparation for the PACAF UCI on 31 October. There's a lot you could say about a higher headquarters inspection that starts on Halloween, but there won't be any tricks when the inspectors arrive. A UCI is a straightforward inspection -- the IG Team will simply be here to make sure we're doing our jobs correctly. A thorough continuity folder, well documented work practices, strong self-inspection program, and knowledgeable personnel will almost guarantee a good grade -- and are things we should already be doing everyday, not just in preparation for the IG team. It's the smart way to ensure "Excellence in all we do."

As we approach the end of 2005 we will again be preparing our Airmen to deploy with AEF-10 -- capping what promises to be another remarkable year for the Shoguns and our associate units. Much will happen between now

Foremost in importance this year will be the 120-day rotation of AEF-5

and then -- exercises, Special Olympics, changes in command, local festivals, construction projects, and more.

Through it all I know that the outstanding servicemen and women, civilian employees, and families of Team Kadena will continue to make PACAF, the Air Force, and our Nation proud!

Banyan trees to remain

718th Civil Engineers avert tree destruction plans at Gate 1

By Naim Qazi
718th Civil Engineer Squadron environmental flight chief

Providing security to our people on Kadena will be enhanced with the construction of the new visitor center at Gates 1 and 2 -- but construction has not come without a unique challenge.

During the planning stage for Gate 1, the visitor center was cited where four Banyan trees are located. Construction of the visitor center would have required the Okinawan "cultural treasures" to be removed, thus, destroying the trees.

The 718th Civil Engineer Squadron environmental flight, responsible for protecting natural resources, stepped forward to assist with the challenge.

The major dilemma of the project was that if the construction of the visitor center at Gate 1 was allowed to proceed without precautionary measures to save the Banyan trees, the trees would be destroyed in the process, in turn, possibly jeopardizing relations with the local community.

However, there was also a concern that the protection of the trees might delay the rapid construction of the visitor center.

The concerns were squashed when team efforts brought about a solution. The environmental flight worked closely with the project designers to ensure these trees were not damaged by moving the visitor center and redesigning the parking area safely away from the Banyan trees.

Thus, we'll have our visitor center and we've saved an Okinawan cultural treasure thanks to the teamwork of all involved.

The intangible benefits of this action are immense. The efforts to make sure the trees were not harmed, and the environmental consciousness that created the change, have brought great credit to the 18th Wing.

This proactive approach demonstrates to the local Okinawan community that Team Kadena cares about being a true environmental steward and good neighbor.

The Banyan trees standing in front of the visitor center and the one behind it will be visible to the travelers on Highway 58 for years to come.

These monuments will stand as an example of our commitment to the environment and our Okinawan neighbors.

AUTO INJECTOR USE

The picture above shows unused (left) and used auto injector training devices. In the event of a simulated attack, the following steps should be taken when using auto injectors:

REMEMBER "SLSBHR"

1. SYMPTOMS: Know the mild vs. severe symptoms and how to appropriately treat them. For mild symptoms, use one set; for severe symptoms, use all three sets.
2. LOCATION: Where are your auto injectors and where do you inject them? Injectors should be stored in your gas mask carrier pouch and most people should inject in the outer thigh. Very skinny people should inject in the upper, outer quadrant of their buttock.
3. SMALL 10: Use the Atropine (smaller) injector first and hold it in place for 10 seconds.
4. BIG 10: Use the 2 PAM Chloride (larger) injector second and hold it in place for 10 seconds.
5. HOOK: Hook used injectors on your GCE.
6. REPEAT (if necessary): If you have dry mouth and fast heartbeat within five to 10 minutes of first injections, you've had enough. If you still have symptoms of nerve agent exposure in 10-15 minutes, use another set of injectors.

Note: In some cases, you may be issued a Diazepam (CANA, or Convulsant Antidote Nerve Agent) injector in addition to Atropine and 2 PAM injectors. The Diazepam injectors are only for use on a buddy. Do not use a Diazepam injector on yourself.

EXERCISE, EXERCISE, EXERCISE

When ‘Bugle Call’ sounds, know what to do and when to do it

By Master Sgt. James Warden
18th Security Forces Squadron

Bugle call is the base’s term for a method used to notify all personnel that a simulated ground or mortar attack is occurring somewhere in Base X during training scenarios.

When bugle call is initiated, all sectors in Base X should assume the most stringent security posture.

Participants should immediately take cover in buildings or defensive fighting positions if possible, and should stay off the streets. Everyone should also don field gear and assume the directed Mission Oriented Protective Posture.

The activation of Bugle Call does not automatically trigger increased MOPP levels. Changes in MOPP levels, if warranted, will be announced along with bugle call.

Participants should be extremely vigilant and challenge and identify all personnel. Any simulat-

Bugle Call announcements

The following is an example of a bugle call announcement personnel will hear during training scenarios at Base X:

- “Exercise, Exercise, Exercise. Bugle call, sector number (or all sectors), MOPP level number. Ground (or mortar) attack. All personnel take cover immediately!”

ed enemy ground activity must be reported immediately to Unit Control Centers or the Base Defense Operations Center.

The information is absolutely critical to mission success and ensuring the safety and security of Base X.

When reporting simulated enemy activity, remember the report should include accurate information gathered using SALUTE. This acronym means:

- Size: Exact number of personnel seen.
- Activity: What are they doing?
- Location: Where are they or where were they sighted?
- Unit/Uniforms: How are they dressed (uniforms, civilian attire)? What color? Any special markings?
- Time: When were they sighted?
- Equipment: What equipment was the enemy using. What types of vehicles, weapons, field gear and chemical gear?

Once the simulated threat is neutralized or pinpointed, unaffected sectors will be released from bugle call.

After all affected sectors have been cleared, the bugle call will be terminated as determined by the 18th Wing commander.

For more information about bugle call, call 632-7024.

Bus Routes & Parking

18th Wing officials released the following information concerning bus routes and parking guidelines for the upcoming operational readiness exercise:

External Bus Routes

Buses will run two external routes on the north and south sides of Base X:

- South side buses will run every 15 minutes
- North side buses will run every 15 minutes

Internal Bus Routes

Buses will run three internal routes in Base X:

- South side internal route buses will serve EEP 1, Bldgs. 868, 870, 3384, 73331, 3339, 3359 in that order.
- South side two internal route buses will serve EEP 2, HAZ 13 and 14 in that order.
- North side internal route buses will serve EEP 6 and Bldgs. 3541, 3542, 3545 and 3660 in that order, every 20 minutes.

The Cadre commander will determine additional stops in Base X. Buses will be added as needed.

Parking issues

- E-1 through E-4 dormitory residents must use bus transportation or walk to get to EEPs 1, 2 or 3.
- Bus pickup is available near most dormitories.
- Participants may drive to EEPs 4, 5 and 6.
- Limited parking is available near each EEP.
- You can park anywhere it is legal to park and cars may be towed if parked illegally.
- Parking areas are available at or near shuttle stops (Emery Lanes and Military Clothing Sales).

Kadena Airmen get an eye full of NFL cheerleaders

SAY CHEERLEADERS!: Capt. Billy Clark, Master Sgt. James Padron, and Tech. Sgt. Jerry Blake from the 623rd Air Control Flight, and Tech. Sgt. Gregory Diggs, 18th Operations Group, are all smiles as they pose with six Miami Dolphin cheerleaders at the Rocker NCO Club Feb. 4. Many military members and families showed up to the Rocker to get autographs from the cheerleaders. "It's a good way to motivate the troops, by showing us that we're still part of the U.S. tradition," said Staff Sgt. Henry Andino, 733rd Air Mobility Squadron supply on temporary duty here from Dover, Delaware.

A WORTHWHILE WAIT: Airmen stand in line to receive autographs from six Miami Dolphin cheerleaders that visited Kadena at the Rocker NCO Club last week. The cheerleaders stayed for about an hour to sign autographs and to take pictures with Kadena members.

Super Bowl fans gone wild

Eagles fans get riled up at the Rocker NCO Club Monday morning while watching the Super Bowl between the New England Patriots and the Philadelphia Eagles. More than 500 people showed up to watch the game at the Rocker, but only Patriots' fans went home happy after the Patriots' 24-21 win over the Eagles. Members of the Okinawa military community -- active-duty, civilian employees, spouses, and retirees -- came out to watch the football game and many received free jerseys to support their team. This was one of several Super Bowl events held on Kadena.
